January 1990

Arlington County is an urban county of about 26 square miles located directly across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C. There are no incorporated towns or cities within Arlington's boundaries. Arlington was originally part of the ten-mile square surveyed in 1791 for the Nation's Capital. In response to requests from local residents, in 1846 the U.S. Congress returned the portion of the District of Columbia on the west bank of the Potomac River to the Commonwealth of Virginia. This area was known as Alexandria City and Alexandria County until 1920 when the County portion was renamed Arlington County.

Arlington's location in the center of the Washington metropolitan region, just five minutes from Washington by car or Metrorail, has made the County a highly desirable business and residential location. Arlington has maintained high-quality residential neighborhoods while supporting well-managed growth. High-density commercial and residential development is focused around Metro stations in the Rosslyn-Ballston corridor and the Jefferson Davis corridor which includes Pentagon City and Crystal City.

Arlington is both a residential community and an employment center. The County had a population of 167,000 and was home to 215,600 jobs as of January 1, 1990. These figures represent a population increase of about 9 percent and an increase in employment of nearly 47 percent over 1980 levels.

Arlington's office market generated more than 14 million sq. ft. of new office space between 1980 and 1989, greatly expanding the County's tax base. As of January 1989, Arlington's real property tax base was evenly divided between commercial and residential properties, enabling the County to maintain a tax rate of $0.78 per $100 of assessed value, the lowest property tax rate in the Washington region.

An additional 519,000 sq. ft. of office space will be added in 1990 to the current inventory of 28 million sq. ft. Most of this space will be in the Crystal City and Pentagon City Metro station areas. One million sq. ft. of office space was absorbed in 1989, resulting in a year-end vacancy rate of 8.1%, among the lowest in the country.
